FLAGLER MUSEUM WINTER EXHIBITION STORIES IN STERLING: FOUR CENTURIES OF SILVER IN NEW YORK CHILDREN'S EXHIBIT ACTIVITY FEBRUARY 15

Exhibition showcases magnificent silver objects and the fascinating stories of the families who owned them

Palm Beach, FL - The Flagler Museum invites fourth through eighth grade children to a special gallery tour with the Museum's Education Director on Saturday, February 15 at 10:00 a.m., followed by a hands-on learning activity. Children will be provided decorative materials to craft a silver cup, as seen in the Exhibition.

On view from January 28 through April 20, 2014, the Henry Morrison Flagler Museum presents Stories in Sterling: Four Centuries of Silver in New York, an exhibition that interprets nearly 200 important pieces of silver within their cultural context, focusing on the men and women that made, used, and treasured these objects. Featured objects shed light on four centuries of silver production and use in the United States. The exhibition will include a selection of paintings, prints, photographs, manuscripts, and other items that illuminate understanding of the silver, bring to life the individuals who acquired it, and illustrate the physical context in which it was used.
